NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Mr. Roach is beyond the reach of medical help, save in alleviating his sufferings, which have long been intense. His disease is epithelioma, and its development has been very similar to the case of General Grant, its location, however, being the roof of the mouth instead of the throat.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 .- The Times' Washington special of January 3d says: Whatever danger there was some time ago that the Treasury supply of gold would give out and the Government be compelled to pay out silver for bond redemption, seems now to be remote and growing more so. The gold owned by the Government now amounts to $170,912,413, a larger sum than the Government has owned previously since the resumption of specie payments, with the exception of the single month of November, 1881. The stock of gold has been growing continuously since July last, in spite of the large redemption of bonds. The increase in the stock of gold for December was a trifle less than $7. 10,000, and for the half fiscal year a le more than $14,000,000. At the ame time the stock of silver dollars, which recently threatened to absorb everything in the treasury, has been for some months steadily falling off, though coinage goes on without interruption. LYING IN STATE.

The Remains of General Logan in the National Capital.

Washington, Dec. 30-A sheet of fresh-fallen snow covered the ground was promoted to the distinguished this morning and the skies were over cast and somber. At the Logan mansion, all preparations for the removal of the dead statesman had been per fected during the night. The remains still lay in the chamber where the General died, but had been placed in the casket. A square plate of silver in the middle of the cover bears this inscription: "John A. Logan, United States Senator. Born February 9. 1826, died December 26, 1886," Floral pillows, with the legends, crosses and anchors and other appropriate emblems were placed near the casket and about the room.

At 1 o'clock the undertaker and his assistant withdrew, when the imme diate family were summoned, and for a brief time were alone with their dead. The lids were fastened in place, the simple folds of the garrison flags were arranged about the casket and tied in place with ribbons of white, white flowers and palm branches were placed on its top. These last offices of love and respect were performed by the loving hands of the only son.

All being in readiness for the more formal, but private leave taking, the doors were opened, and the widow, supported by her son and followed by er daughter and husband, her grand son and other relatives and nearer friends of the deceased, to the num of fifteen or twenty, entered. Mrs. Logan knelt, sobbing, at the head of the casket, and when the others had entered and the door had been closed. the voice of the pastor was raised in prayer. There was a moment's silence. broken only by the sobs of the strick en ones, and the son tenderly raised the almost fainting form of the widow and led her away. Remaining friends pursed for a last sight of the beloved features, and with their departure ended the family's custody of the state man's remains The Congressional Committee now took formal charge of the remains. The Sergent at Arms superintended the closing of the casket and its slow and orderly removal from the cham ber of the dead down stairs, the way between the lines of the uncovered escort and its placing in the hearse. Fifes and muffled drams sounded the salute, which merged itself into the air of "Nearer My God to Thee," and at the word "Forward!" the hearse. preceded by the pastor's carriage alone, surrounded by platoons of Grand Army men in uniform, and followed by a long procession of carriages, moved slowly down the hill to he Capitol.

The funeral cortege arrived at the Capitol at 1:30 o'clock, amid the silence of thousands of persons who had assembled in the retunds. The casket was then placed upon the bier prepared for its reception. In accordance with the arrangements, there was no service of any kind, and the people present were requested to withdraw until 2 o'clock, when the lid of the casket was opened and the public permitted to view the remains.

General Sheridan has issued orders for the formation of the funeral procession, which will move westward on Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street, on Fifteenth street to Ver-mont avenue, on Vermont avenue to Rhode Island avenue, on Rhode Island avenue to Seventh street, and on Seventh street to Rock Creek Ceme-

The President has directed that while the remains of the late Senator Logan are lying in state at the Capitol, flags on the public buildings shall be displayed at half-mast, and that they shall so remain until after the ceremonies. An order was issued at the Interior Department to-day allowing all members of the Grand Army employed in the department who wish to attend the funeral of General Logan to be absent all day to-morrow.

Subsequently he was four years in the Legislature of ceived no callers. He expects to be Florida. At the breaking out of the Mexican war he was a Captain of the Rifles, commanding a regiment in the capture of Vera Cruz, and was distinguished in all the battles of that time which resulted in the taking of the city of Mexico. Young Loring, while leading his regiment at the head of the army on the Tacabaya causeway, in a direct line from the Castle of Chepultepec, had his left arm carried off by a cannon shot. He was bre veted twice in this war for gallant services. In 1849 he marched his mounted regiment across the continent, 2,000 miles, protected the large emigration to Utah and Oregon that year, and commanded the Department till 1851. He commanded on the Rio Grande in Texas until 1856, when he marched his regiment to Fort Union. N. M.; was in constant service, particularly in Arizona and Utah. In 1859-60 he travelled in Europe and the East. Returning in 1860 he was assigned to the command of the De partment of New Mexico and Arizona. Resigning in 1861 as Colonel of the Rifles, he entered the Confederate service, Florida being his home that year, and served through the war as a Major-General. He entered the service of the Khedive in 1869 and served as Inspector-General until late in 1870. when he was appointed to the command of Alexandria and the coast of Egypt, with the larger portion of the Egyptian army. He was ordered to Abysinia as second in command and chief of Staff, of the army sent there; served there during part of 1875-76 and was engaged in the two battles fought in the vally of Gura. He went to Egypt with the rank of Lewan Pasha, but it was not long before he
